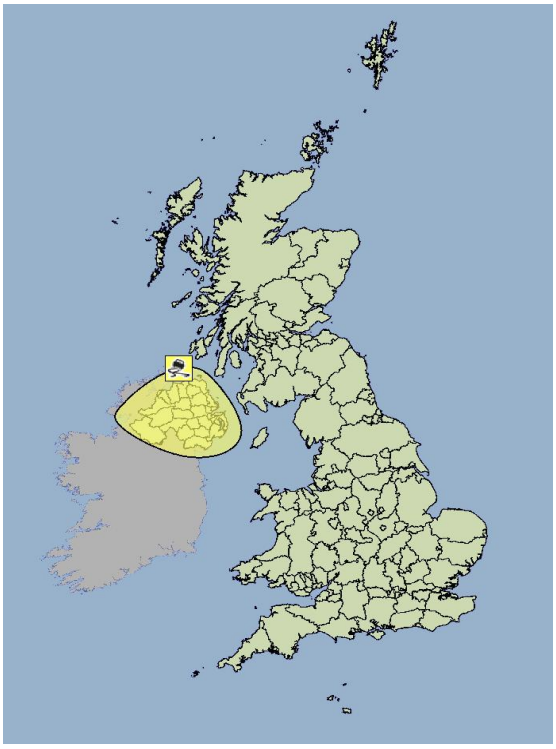
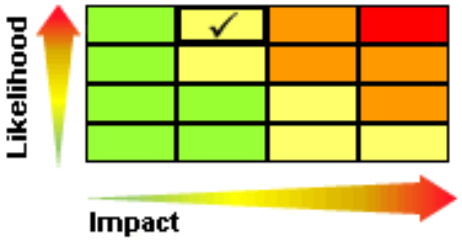
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Showers will fall across Northern Ireland during Monday with surface temperatures rapidly falling below freezing on Monday evening. This, combined with some snow melt, will lead to icy stretches forming. The showers will then die out overnight.

Patchy freezing fog may provide an additional hazard

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 16:00 on Mon, 11th Dec 2017 until 11:00 on Tue, 12th Dec 2017

Ice is expected to form across Northern Ireland on Monday evening with icy surfaces expected, lasting into Tuesday morning.

Some injuries are likely from slips and falls on icy surfaces and icy patches will form on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths.
